International Access to Justice Forum 2025

September 26-27, 2025

New York City

At Fordham University School of Law and New York University School of Law

The International Access to Justice Forum 2025 will bring together a diverse group of scholars, researchers, practitioners, reformers, court and dispute resolution experts, and all who are committed to increasing access to justice to discuss exciting new research, theory, and policy developments in the global movement for civil justice.

We look forward to a broad range of presentations on topics such as racial, gender, ethnic, religious and other forms of discrimination in the design and operation of civil justice systems; gaps in access to justice; impacts of new technologies; legal professional regulatory reform; legal needs studies; climate change and civil justice; civil justice in democratic governance; and more. We welcome your participation, whether as an in-person presenter or attendee, or as a member of the online audience.

We seek to make this a truly international conference and hope to be able to offer limited scholarships to expand the participation of persons interested in attending the Forum from other parts of the world.
